

2012 Sigrid Chardonnay

2012 marks the seventh vintage of our flagship white wine: Sigrid Chardonnay. There are only a few small places on earth where the noble varietal of Chardonnay truly reaches great heights, and Oregon's northern Willamette Valley is one of these extraordinary places. We believe in the power and promise of Oregon Chardonnay, and our Sigrid consistently turn heads across the wine-drinking world. A barrel selection of our finest barrels from the seven exclusive Chardonnay vineyards we farm and work with in the Willamette Valley, our 2012 Sigrid represents our finest effort to date.

The 2012 Sigrid Chardonnay is a white-gold wedding ring color with a youthful, greenish chlorophyll tint. This is an explosively aromatic wine that showcases classic Chardonnay characters like hazelnut, saffron, lime blossom, Meyer lemon, whipped spiced cream, a faint whiff of smoke and sweet oak influence alongside just the slightest hint of buttered brioche. A true classic in the making, we find a harmonious balance between richness and concentration in this wine, a characteristic of the outstandingly ripe 2012 vintage, in addition to the acidic tension and mineral cut we look for in the world's greatest Chardonnays. As always, Sigrid is about textural expression, enveloping layers of flavors and varietal expression into a silky, golden gift that can be opened now or cellared with care for years to come, only to gain in complexity and worth. The 2012 Sigrid Chardonnay is delicious now and will be very enjoyable with shellfish, rich buttered fish dishes, pâtés and rillettes and complex artisan cheeses. Drink now through 2024.
